

Henry Cole

Biography

Henry Cole grew up on a dairy farm outside Purcellville, Virginia. Always interested in art and science, he studied forestry at Virginia Tech. He is a self-taught artist, although his mother was a professional illustrator who gave him many pointers along the way. His education required him to study nature closely, and his observation of such details helped him with his drawing.

Henry worked in a number of jobs, including magazine illustration, and was an elementary school science teacher for sixteen years. He now lives in Washington D.C., and on the island of Aruba.— Adapted from www.harpercollins.com
