Roland Smith

Biography

Born in Portland, Oregon, Roland Smith knew what career path he wanted to take at an early age. When he was five years old, he received an old manual typewriter from his parents that quickly became his favorite possession. Smith's passion for writing unexpectedly led him to working with animals. While pursuing an English major at Portland State University, Smith took a part-time job at the local children's zoo. Little did he know that his part-time job would lead to a twenty-year career with the zoo and that his work with animals would take him all over the world.

Smith continued to practice his writing, but it was hard because the animal work took a lot of time. Still, he kept writing and getting his books published. Eventually, Smith left the zoo to write full-time. Even though he no longer works with animals, his love for them still shapes a large part of his work as a writer. "Most of my novels are a result of my travels and experiences in the field," notes the author.

Over the years, Smith has written numerous books for young readers, including Jack's Run, Zach's Lie, Cryptid Hunters, Peak, Tentacles, and the Storm Runners series. He is also the co-author of numerous picture books with his wife. A frequent speaker at schools and libraries across the country, Smith lives with his wife on a farm near Portland, Oregon.
